DIANA DILLPICKLES IN

(HER GOLFER BEAU)

A 4-REEL "SCREECHER" FILM

"IT WAS AT THE
GOLD FISH HOLE,
MISS DILLPICKLES,
I CAREFULLY CALCULATED THE DISTANCE,
AND THEN

The Spotlight

BY GRANTLAND RICE

YES, GO AWAY.

Ach, what a day-up cloud against the sky:
A vast blue dome to greet the eager eye;
And here I sit within the tender sun,
To rest again and cheer the winning run;
Back at my perch once more on Rotters' Row,
To thrill again at Wagner's mighty blow.
Forgotten now dull Winter's atmosphere
Of lawless squabbles and of legal snare,
Where in this gloom the summer day
Old Matty breaks the magic Fadeaway,
And lead above the tumult and the rout
Bill Klein, the dapper, dandy, "Buck out!"
And now, from where he labors on the hill,
The cunning Rudolph speeds the hurling pill.
Where Doyle, free swinging with a mighty smash,
Leans up against K with the ancient ash—
On, on it sails, as if from a Krupp—
Don't wake me up.

Any number of hall players are now wintering in Florida. This is another sign of ardent sport. Only think of the poor people at Palm Beach on a day like this!

Someday we hope to reach such limits of serfdom that we will be driven by some heartless slave-master into Florida to spend January, February and March. But up to date there is practically nothing doing in this direction.

MISSING A MILLION.

The queer turns and shifts that abound in sport have been mentioned before. But one of the queerest to our zany line of thought is the lack of development among the white heavyweights of the athletic enterprise. A trifle more than seven years have now passed since Jack Johnson destroyed Jim Jeffries at Reno. It required no expert prophecy that he would tell that the first white heavyweight able to step out and beat Johnson had a million dollars in sight. Yet, with seven years to work on, not a contender has been developed worth ranking in the championship class.

SOUR FIELD.

With seven years to work in, look at the result—Carl Morris, Jess Willard, Gusout Smith, Jim Flynn, Frank Moran and Jim Coffey. Not a touch of science or skill in the lot—merely a vast collection of human flesh and bone, minus any of the ability or instinct that once belonged to the old crop—Sullivan, Corbett, Fitz and Jeffries.

Not a single first-class white heavyweight has displayed his frontispiece against the battle horizon in twelve years. Any number of stars at lesser weights have come and gone, but in the one field that would have paid a cool million in return there has been no entry worth the name.

THE REASON THEREOF.

The reason has been twofold. 1. Lack of heavyweight material possessing the fighting instinct. 2. Lack of proper training and aggressive competition for championship fights.

It seems Willard had fought his way to the front as Jeffries did there would be no question today of Johnson's fate. But Willard has been content to stall along, fighting, but in the one field that would have paid a cool million in return there has been no entry worth the name.

NEAR LIMERICK.

There was a young league called the Feds:
That advertised beer, fish and bread;
They swore O. B.'s clench
On the game was a clench:
Did they ever try running the Reds?

There was a time when every manhole in the land was looking forward with a mighty yearning to April 14. But no more. The season opens then—but so does the payroll.

Old Rose Bulger bumped into a friend recently he hadn't seen for some time. The friend's condition was pink, but hardly mid-season form. "Drinking anything?" inquired Rose politely. "Yes, anything," was the reply.

OFFSIDE PLAYS.

The guy who enters with an excuse always ends with an alibi—plus a trimmings.

A star in the hand is worth four aunts in the bush.

We'll say this for the Feds—they picked a grand little business and financial epoch to start a new league and host salaries. One of the grandest since the Egyptian famine some 4200 seasons ago.

"Harvard gets a new football star from Exeter." To those that have shall be given.

"John D. Rockefeller, Jr., may be the greatest man in America."—Mother Jones. What's the idea. Has he discovered a scheme to break up this baseball war?

We knew for sometime that baseballs were stuffed with Russian whiskers, but we never knew before they were covered with the hide of Russian ponies.

This news breaks up a cherished tradition of baseball writing. "Wagner clouted the horseshoe for two bases" must now read: "Wagner puniemed the ephemeris of a Russian pony for two sacks."

In regard to the pool tournament being staged by New York newspaper entries, a number of operators have brought charges against them for hounding unfitted tourists.

Coach Graves Quits Atlanta

ATLANTA, Feb. 1.—Coach O. V. Graves, coach at the University of Atlanta since the fall of 1913, tendered his resignation to the athletic faculty yesterday, according to reports received here. For a about a week, several applications for the position are on file.

Philly Scout Here on Way to Training Camp

Billy Neal Spends Day Here Looking After Affairs of His Club—Talks With Milt Reed, Trying to Put Over Deal With Bill Smith on Infielder.

Hardly a week passes these days but that some big league baseball manager, scout, or other attaché of the majors does not pay Atlanta a visit. This week past was no exception. The visitor this time was Scout Billy Neal, of the Philadelphia Nationals.

Neal blew into the city Saturday night and left last night for St. Petersburg, Fla. The Phillies train in that city this spring, and Neal is on his way to look after details of getting things in shape for the arrival of the club. Manager Moran will take such of his players as will gather in Philadelphia down by boat. Others will see direct to the camp.

Neal's stop-over in Atlanta, however, was made with other ends in view. For one thing, Neal wanted to have a little chat with Milt Reed, of the Phillies, who has planned to send Milt to Portland, in the Pacific Coast league, to the local boy is very much opposed to the move. He has been petitioning Moran to make some other deal, whereby he can play in the east, or middle west. Neal dug the matter up, and the club owners figured that he could secure a satisfactory arrangement with the infielder than anybody else connected with the club. No definite decision was reached in the matter, according to the two just before Neal left.

In addition to the matter of getting things straightened out, Neal had a little matter to discuss with Manager Bill Smith. The Phillies want to dispose of some other deal, whereby he can play in the east, or middle west. Neal dug the matter up, and the club owners figured that he could secure a satisfactory arrangement with the infielder than anybody else connected with the club. No definite decision was reached in the matter, according to the two just before Neal left.

Manager Smith has just closed for another series of exhibition games. This series will be played with the Havana, Reds, and Cincinnati, or rather an independent team from the west, who have been prominently identified with baseball on the island for years, is handling the affairs of the team. Manager Smith writes that his team is composed of youngsters, who play a fast, snappy game. Many of his players have worked alongside of Marsans, Almada, Acosta and a bunch of other Cuban players who later played in various leagues in this country. It is quite likely that some of these players will make the grades in the states within the next year or so.

Bowlers Begin Match Contest

A bowling match, which should bring out some of the best west seen on a local alley in years is slated to start tonight, when the picked team from the Atlanta alleys meets another team from the city. The match will be played on the Atlanta alleys, and the team from the city will have charge of the match. The team will bowl seven games, total pins to count in the final reckoning. These games will be bowled each night, and three more Thursday night. These will be followed up at regular intervals until seven games have been rolled. The teams will alternate between the Atlanta alleys and Elliott's place, until the final three games are reached, when a coin will be flipped to decide where they will be rolled.

Pitcher Toney Jumps

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 1.—Fred Toney, pitcher of the Louisville Cardinals, has jumped to the Brooklyn Nationals, announced yesterday that he had signed a contract with the Pittsburgh Federal league.

The NEWS

BY INNIS BROWN

President Nick P. Corish of the South Atlantic league, who gives baseball and its many problems about as much thought as any league leader in the country, has offered a new proposition to the men higher up in the game, which he believes is worth their earnest consideration. In fact Corish has had his league adopt a resolution, which has been forwarded to the national commission, urging that the commission use its offices to have major league clubs train in towns in which clubs in organized ball are located.

President Corish is at present in Atlanta on private business, and told of his proposition, while speaking of the recent discussion which arose over the fact that the Pittsburgh Federal league is going to train in Augusta. When this information was first made public, President Barney Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh Pirates took occasion to call the attention of Harry Herman, president of the commission, to the fact that the outlaws were being harbored in a city having franchise under the organization. Furthermore, the Pittsburgh Pirates were exhibited which tended to show that Corish had given his consent to the plan to have the Feds train in the town.

Strawburgh Hermann got busy to learn Corish why he had given his approval to such a proposition. But Corish had been sleeping on the job. He showed the commission that he not only had not approved of the plan, but that he had been opposing it from before the knowledge of the deal reached Dreyfuss.

An investigation revealed the fact that Corish had been sleeping on the job. He showed the commission that he not only had not approved of the plan, but that he had been opposing it from before the knowledge of the deal reached Dreyfuss.

The resolution urging that major league clubs train in towns in which clubs in organized ball are located, is a good one. During the coming spring season, large percentages of the big leaguers will train in towns that do not have league ball at all. For instance, the Dodgers go to Daytona. The Phillies to St. Petersburg, the Cubs to Tampa, the Red Sox and Pirates to Hot Springs, Detroit to Gaultport and the Sox to Paso Robles, Cal. Neither of these clubs lends any help at all to minor league clubs in their training season, and the commission would do well to give Corish's request full consideration.

Long Trip for Georgia Nine

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 1.—The schedule of games which will test the merit of the Red and black baseball teams during the approaching season has just been announced. Twenty-three contests have been arranged with the possibility that a few others may be added. In addition to the list given below, the team will play several exhibition games with the Buffalo Federal league club which will do its spring training on Sanford field.

Georgia meets the leading college teams of this section, including Tech, Auburn, Clemson, Alabama and Georgia. Games have also been scheduled with Carolina colleges and others further along the coast line states. Northern trip will be a feature of the schedule. Visiting, Trinity, Virginia and the Naval Academy. Last season a similar trip was made, but the eligibility requirements of the S. I. A. A. which existed at that time, made it necessary to cancel several of the games listed. These rules have been changed, and no trouble is anticipated next season.

Four games will be played with Tech this year. It has been the custom for several years. The first two will be staged in Atlanta on May 1 & 2. The other two will be played in Atlanta a week later. Following is the schedule as prepared: Georgetown university, March 24, at Athens. Auburn, March 25-27 (double-header), at Athens. Mercer, April 24, Macon. Mercer, April 30, at Athens. University of Alabama, April 12-13, at Athens. North Carolina A. & M., April 19, at Raleigh. Trinity, April 26, at Durham. Davidson, April 27, at Charlotte. University of Virginia, April 27-29, at Charlottesville. Naval Academy, April 24, at Annapolis. Clemson, April 30 and May 1, at Clemson. Trinity, May 2-4, at Athens. Mercer, May 24, at Athens. Tech, May 14-15, at Athens.

Perry Matched To Meet Hanlon

Pittsburg Welter Will Box Local Boy at Bijou on the Night of February 9

Mike Saul, who has taken a hand in promoting boxing contests during the past few weeks, has announced the principals in his next card to be offered the followers of boxing. Eddie Hanlon, the local scrapper, and Jimmy Perry, who has boxed here on numerous occasions before, will be brought together on the night of February 9 at the Bijou. Hanlon and Perry have mixed it twice before, and each holds one knock-out as a result of the two fights. On the occasion of their first meeting, Hanlon slipped the local sporting fraternity a surprise by showing over a "kaxo" early in the fray. The two were matched a short time after that, and Perry came back with a sleep punch in the eighth frame.

Hanlon has been boxing recently before the Birmingham Athletic club, and his work in Slagtown created very favorable comment. Perry has been in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh for several months, and has been doing quite a bit of boxing. Hanlon is here at present and Perry is expected to arrive in a few days. There is no love lost between the two, and their clash should prove a bang-up affair.

Joe Willard is reported to be very serious and earnest about the outcome of his coming battle with Jack Johnson. He says Corish and Tom Johnson. But they are more serious about the income of suckers at the turnstiles.
